

The Best Dog Food Brands for Strong and Healthy Pets, According to Veterinarians

Lisa Marie Conklin

Veterinarians want the best for their dogs, of course, and so do you. Here are the best dog food brands vets feed their fur babies.

Our editors and experts handpick every product we feature. We may earn a commission from your purchases.

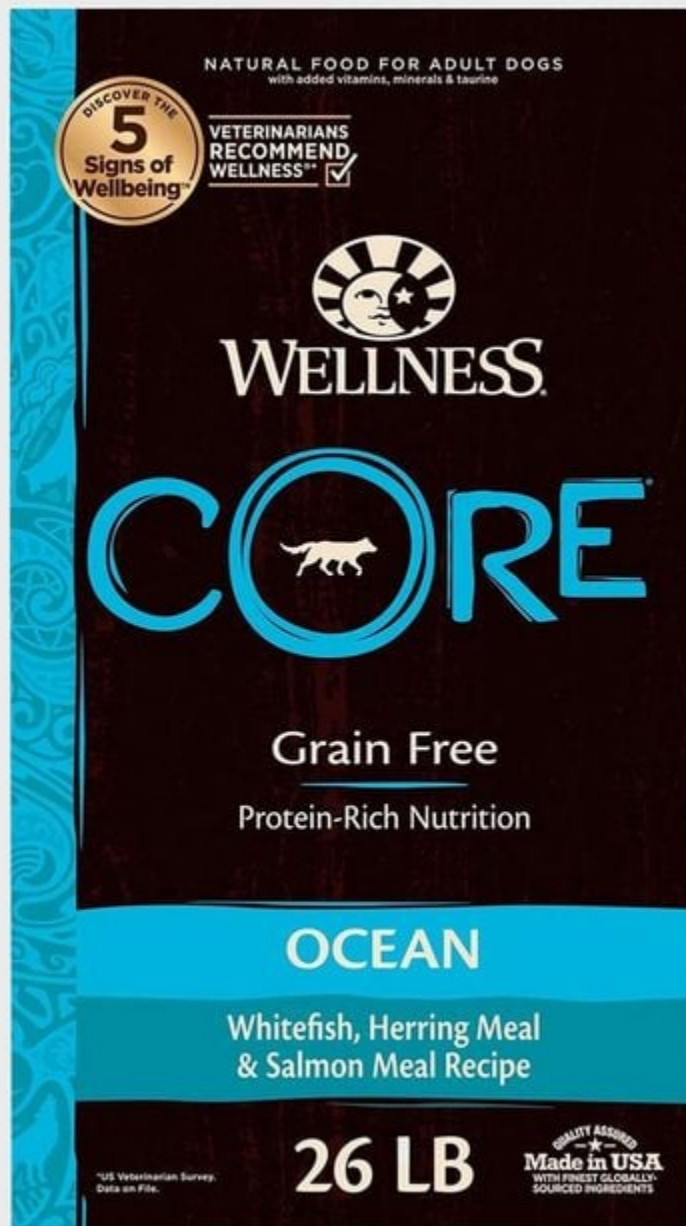

chendongshan/Getty Images

Every dog has its own needs, and the best diet for dogs will vary depending on size, breed and age. If you just got a new pup or you're in the market for a new brand, check out the best dog food brands below. Always make sure you take a good look at the label, too, as some food may contain ingredients that can harm your dog's health.

If you need to replace other items for your dog as well, like toys, treats or accessories, make sure to check out the the rest of these brands' pet lines.

Best overall dog food

Wellness Natural Pet Food

Read More

Best budget dog food

Purina Beneful

Read More

